DECORATION DAY SERVICES.

Yesterday Afternoon's Memorial Day Observances at Oak Hill.

Dedicating the G. A. R. Relief Corps Urns—Exercises Shortened Because of Rain.

Rain interfered with the latter part of the Memorial day exercises at Oak Hill.

The exercises were opened by prayer by the Rev. T. De Witt Pesko, singing by a quartette consisting of Messrs. T. O. Kimberley, O. N. Vankirk, George O. Paris and C. L. Clark followed.

The orator of the day was Capt. Pliny Norcross, but just as he rose to speak the rain began.

The exercises were therefore considerably interrupted, with the hearers stood their ground bravely and their hearty applause showed them to be in full sympathy with the speakers' train of thought.

The handsome memorial urn was presented to W. H. Sargent Post by Miss Ella L. Wills, president of Woman's Relief Corps No. 21, with the following well chosen words:

Commander of W. H. Sargent Post No. 21, Grand Army of the Republic:

In behalf of W. H. Sargent Woman's Relief Corps No. 21, Department of Wisconsin, I invite you to accept this Memorial urn, and request that it may be dedicated to the memory of all who fought for the Union of the United States of America, and especially to perpetuate the remembrance of the heroic dead who nobly gave their lives for the country and who now sleep in unknown graves.

Commander Lee's response was fitting and appropriate.

As the dedicatory services began a hollow square was formed about the urn by W. H. Sargent Post, the Light Infantry and the Woman's Relief Corps. On one side of the urn was W. V. Morrison in the full naval uniform with drawn cutlasses; while on the other side, standing at "carry arms" was Frank Pollard, in the uniform of the volunteer and representing the army. Behind them was a guard of honor consisting of Charles Schott and J. C. Granger. The dedicatory services were short but impressive.

At the close a salute was fired over the cenotaph and the erecting of graves was begun. The urn in the Catholic cemetery was dedicated later in the afternoon.

WHAT COLOR ARE HER EYES? How Screen Play From Tattler Eye Lids.

Black (dark brown) are signs of passionate ardor in love.

Dark blue or violet denote great affection or purity, but not much intellectuality.

Clear, light blue, with calm, steadfast glance, denote cheerfulness, good temper, constancy.

Pale blue or steel-colored, with shifting motion of eyelids, and pupils, denote coquettishness and selfishness.

Russet brown, without yellow, denote an affectionate disposition, sweet and gentle. The darker the brown the more ardent the passion.

Blue, with greenish tints, are not so strongly indicative of these traits, but a slight propensity to greenish tints in eyes of any color is a sign of wisdom and courage.

Gray or greenish gray, with orange and blue shades, and every varying tint, are most intellectual, and indicate the most impulsive, imprudent and artistic natures.

Light brown or yellow denote inconstancy; green, deceit and coquetry. Eyes of no particular color (only some feeble shades of blue or gray, dull, expressionless and dead looking) belong to the emphatic temperament, and denote a listless, feeble disposition, and a cold, selfish nature.

Capt. Barclay Won a Prize in a Foot Race.

Capt. Wm. H. Barclay, the pension agent at Pittsburg, has drawn a $750.00 prize from the Louisiana State Lottery.

Some time ago I purchased the half ticket at $5. Yesterday I was notified that ticket No. 12,615 had drawn the capital prize of $150,000, and as that is the number of one of my half tickets I am entitled to half the amount and $25 besides, inasmuch as all tickets are sold with the number 15 are good for $50 each. I understand that the other half of the capital prize was won by five Philadelphia mechanics. Indianapolis Journal, April 22.

HUMOR WITH A MORAL.

Something for the "Boys" to Read and Consider.

Geo. W. Peck, of Peck's Sun, may never be permitted to occupy the gubernatorial chair of Wisconsin by claiming that the question of dishonoring cattle is a "local issue," notwithstanding the "old gentleman's" numerous offenses have a sound moral as well as much humor. Read:

A Chicago hoodlum named Carey killed a Chinaman recently for no cause on earth. When arrested he laughed heartily and he killed the man just for fun. He thought a Chinaman was no friend and no Chinaman less would not make any difference. His idea of the heathen was the same as the ideas entertained by many people on the Pacific coast, where the killing of one of the poor creatures is not looked upon as a serious offense, unless caught in the very act. The young brute, Carey, went before a judge and pleaded guilty, thinking very likely he would be fined ten dollars or thirty days in jail for disorderly conduct. The judge entered into the spirit of the fun with great zest, and laughingly remarked that it was a cold day for Chinamen when Carey was around. Carey smiled, and then the judge pronounced the sentence, "fifty years at hard labor in the penitentiary." There was never a young man more astonished than Carey was. He couldn't believe his ears. Fifty years for just killing one Chinaman. He choked up and turned pale, and looked around at his attorney, and at some friends who were present to pay his fine. They were as much astonished as he was. The prisoner asked the judge if he heard the sentence right. Was it fifty years? The judge smiled and said that was about the size of it. Carey looked as though he would sink through the floor. He began to realize his situation then. He was a young man barely of age with a

BIBLES IN THE SCHOOLS.

Judge Bennett Hears Argument On the Celebrated Edgerton School Board Case.

Shall Religious Worship Be Allowed in Wisconsin Public Schools?

Nine ministers and four attorneys headed the group in front of Judge Bennett's desk today. The ministers had simply looked in to see what was going on, but the attorneys were busy on the case of Mrs. Weiss against the school board of District No. 8, Edgerton.

This case is the celebrated "bible case" begun by Edgerton Catholics some time ago. They complained that their children who attended the public schools were delayed by religious exercises such as the Catholic, church refused to sanction. They insisted, was sectarian instruction, distinctly forbidden under the laws of the state.

On the other hand the school board insisted that simply reading a chapter from the scriptures each day was not sectarian and could not be prohibited. They said that children who did not wish to take part were not obliged to, and that the studies of such children were no more interrupted than they would have been by the recitations of other classes.

When the case first came up one class of the complaint alleged that children had been whipped for refusing to repeat the Lord's prayer. It is understood that this charge has now been dropped and that the question is to be made simply on the question whether bible reading in the schools is allowable under any circumstances.

Witnesses and Hyzer appeared for the plaintiff in the case, while A. A. Jackson represents the defendant Mr. Hyzer began his arguments this morning, and is still speaking as we go to press.

CAUGHT IN THE COURTS.

Justice Bennett to-day overruled the motion to set aside the verdict in the case of Campbell against the American Fire Insurance Company.

The Corbin divorce case was brought up, but a continuance was ordered until Tuesday to obtain further testimony.

John Follen and Richard Sayles, two smart young men from Beloit, were before Judge Patterson today for making a disturbance in Geese's saloon. They visited the saloon last evening, ordered drinks and then refused to pay for them. On being told there was trouble and the Corbin case was taken to stay with Sheriff Ward.

PITCAIRN ISLANDERS.

Curious Results Arising from a Meeting on a British Vessel.

The ship Pitcairn, December 23, 1878, sailed from Spithead, Eng., bound for the South Sea. To many of the present generation, says the New York Press, the story of the Pitcairners is a vague tradition; and that the local descendants of the multi-race are now living, entirely by themselves, on an island in the Pacific ocean very far from Pitcairn's Island. The island is known as Pitcairn's Island.

The ship was under a commission from the British Admiralty to visit the Society and other islands and collect a number of bread-fruit plants, which were then to be taken to the coast of the British Isles for the purpose of stock breeding. The vessel started on her homeward voyage with Lieutenant Bligh in command. He was an unusually good officer, and his disposition was very kind. He was a Quaker, and his crew was composed of Quakers, sailors, and a few other men.

Nothing was heard of Christian and those who had gone on to Pitcairn for the purpose of stock breeding.
